

ARMOUR FOR CENTRALIZED CONTROL

KEER SAYS CENTRAL AGENCY WOULD STABILIZE PRICES ON MEATS.

URGES 'GET-TOGETHER'

Packers, Producers and Consumers Could Get Together for Mutual Benefit, He Says.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Jan. 22.—Appearing for the second day before the house interstate commerce commission, J. Ogden Armour, president of Armour and company, was questioned further today by members of the committee as to operations of the meat packing industry. The committee is conducting a hearing in connection with the bill proposing government regulation of the industry.

Establishment of a central agency to control shipments of meat animals to market was advocated by Mr. Armour as a means of stabilizing prices and preventing glut in the market. He said, however, that supply was not the only factor in fixing the market for livestock, which depended also on the fluctuating demand for meat.

Replying to Representative Stephens of Nebraska, Mr. Armour said the consumer could protect himself in measure against high prices by refraining from purchasing but that the producer of livestock, like the packer, had to take whatever the market was paying at the time he sold.

"We are much interested in maintaining a reasonable price much more so than in having a price too high to discourage the eating of meat or too low to prevent raising of cattle," Mr. Armour said. "Is there any way that fat cattle can be sold at a price based on production cost?" Mr. Stephens asked.

"I would welcome heartily any arrangement that would accomplish that," the witness said.

"You might do away with the glut on the market by establishing a central agency to regulate shipments. The food administration has established a zone system in Chicago, working through the railroads, which has operated fairly well."

"If there was a little more liberal thought in the treatment of the packers it would be a great benefit to the public. The packers have been afraid even to talk together because of charges of collusion. There ought to be some way to get the packers, producers and consumers to get together for the advantage of each."

"I also think there ought to be some thought of arrangement to protect the packers," Mr. Stephens said.

Bringing out that the $15,000,000 earnings shown in Armour's annual statement did not include $6,800,000 net inside the federal income tax, Mr. Stephens asked:

"Then you are passing that on to the consumer?"

"That may be so," Mr. Armour replied.

Might Effect Food Relief.
Representative Hamilton of Michigan attempted to develop the possible effect on the packers of the foot-vote appropriation of $100,000,000 requested by President Wilson.

"They say that the fund will enable the packers to sell in southeastern Europe a great surplus of salt pork which has been accumulated in England and which the people there won't eat now that the war is past," Mr. Hamilton said.

Armour replied that the packers perhaps had larger stocks of salt pork than ordinarily, but he thought there was going to be a demand for it.

Asked as to the Armour's advertising campaign the witness replied that it had been necessary to do a great deal more advertising than usual "since the federal trade commission started its crusade against the packers." He said the packers had to inform the public of their side of the question because they had had no chance until now to make their reply to the commission's charges.

Armour's statement yesterday that the bill pending to license the packing industry and to permit the government to take over the stock yards and refrigerator cars was unconstitutional, was touched on by Representative Hamilton.

"The witness said he thought the bill was 'ridiculous' that he had not intended to go into detail regarding it, but that his counsel would give the constitutional objections if the committee desired."

NOLAN TO ASK FOR REPEAL OF INSURANCE ISSUED BY STATE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 22.—The repeal of the state life insurance fund will be asked in the legislature this week by Assemblyman T. S. Nolan of Janesville. He announced today that the measure would be introduced during the week in accordance with the recommendation of Gov. E. L. Philipp on the subject.

"I think the law should be repealed and the fund closed up," said Assemblyman T. S. Nolan today. "The policy holders can be re-insured by the state commissioner of insurance with some reputable insurance company. I do not think the state should go into the insurance business."

The state life insurance law was enacted at the 21st session of the Wisconsin legislature. The bill was backed by then speaker, Charles A. Ingram of Durand and had the support of insurance commissioner Herman L. Eklund. Gov. Philipp claims that the history of this legislation shows that life insurance can only be obtained by solicitors and not by the simple announcement that the state has a life fund in which its citizens may insure.

AMUSEMENT TAXES WILL NOT BE RAISED

Washington, Jan. 22.—Taxes on amusement admissions will not be increased by the war revenue bill. The conferees agreed today to rescind their previous decision to increase the rate from 10 to 20 per cent.

The new decision followed receipt of petitions bearing thousands of names protesting against the proposed increase. The conferees decided to let the present tax of one cent on each ten cents paid for amusement admissions remain in effect but to increase the tax on cabaret admissions from 10 to 15 per cent, and also that on club dues from 10 to 15 per cent.

The tax of one cent applies to theaters, moving pictures, entertainments, baseball grounds, circuses, and other amusements.

BIG PERCENTAGE OF COLLEGE PROFESSORS DISLOYAL, CHARGE

Washington, Jan. 22.—Archibald Stevenson of New York, a representative of the military intelligence service, testifying today before the senate propaganda investigating committee declared a large number of professors in American colleges and universities subscribed to radical and pacifist views. The witness said the names of such professors were obtained by the intelligence and that he was prepared to give them to the committee.

Senator King of Utah remarked that it was time to "drive out of our universities these pernicious teachings," the committee decided to discuss executive session whether the names of the professors should be made public.

Mr. Stevenson gave the names of several organizations which he said were connected with the peace ship to Europe, the German or both in their purpose. Referring to the Ford peace party, Mr. Stevenson said Rosika Schwimmer, who aided in the movement and accompanied the peace ship to Europe, undoubtedly was a German agent.

He said the Church Peace Union, founded by Andrew Carnegie without the knowledge of its officials and made up of the members of the Civil Liberties bureau in getting pacifist views from pastors of churches.

Among other organizations he mentioned were the Anti-Preparedness committee, of which grew the American Union against militarism, the American neutrality conference, the Peoples Council for peace and democracy and the christian socialists in America.

DRAFT MACHINERY COST HALF MILLION IN WISCONSIN

AVERAGE COST OF EXEMPTION BOARD $250, ACCORDING TO ITEMIZED REPORT

U. S. PAID EXPENSES

Many Members Refused Compensation on Draft Boards, Serving as Patriotic Duty

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 22.—The total expense for salaries and operation of the draft in the state of Wisconsin was $510,227.67, according to the report just completed by Major E. A. Fitzpatrick, State Draft Administrator. This expense includes the total cost of the district boards as well as local boards. The cost was divided as follows:

Salary of Boards; $252,423.62; Salary Employees $221,058.98; Salary Physician $2,122.00; Traveling Expenses $3,474.28; Rent $4,913.44; Supplies, $16,063.73; Miscellaneous Expenses $9,459.82; total $510,227.67.

According to these figures the first draft in the state of Wisconsin cost $138,574.30. The expense of the draft between Nov. 12, 1917, and June 30, 1918 was $100,083.77. The expense between July 1, 1918, and December 30, 1918, was $181,564.00. There were five district boards in the state of Wisconsin. The total expense of these boards was $40,470.00. The expense of district boards during the first draft was $14,738.00. During the second period beginning Nov. 20, 1917, to June 30, 1918, the expense of the district boards was $15,369.00, and the expense of the district boards for the six months period beginning July, 1918, and ending December 30, 1918, was $10,363.00.

There were 104 local board members in the State of Wisconsin, consisting approximately of one thousand members. Assuming that every local board member drew a salary, which is not true, however, this would give an average of approximately $250.00 for every board member. Many members did not draw salary, however. The record shows that salaries were drawn as high as $1200.00 by a single member.

The expense is not a state but a national expense, and the salary paid to the draft boards is paid by the federal government. The state was from Federal sources. General Holway was disbursing officer from the beginning of the draft until June 30, 1918, and was succeeded by Mr. Fitzpatrick. Mr. Holway today has $69,335.32 of Federal funds.

Under Federal regulations members of the draft boards both state and local were not permitted to draw salaries for their services. Many of the members, however, considered the nature of their work as a patriotic duty, and refused to take the salary.

Bolshevists Plunder Ukrainian Peasants; Forced to Bury Food

Winnipeg, Monday, Jan. 20.—Ukrainian peasants are hiding grain from the Bolsheviks by burying it in large pits dug in the clay soil. The peasants dig the pits by building large fires in them. It is reported that the Bolsheviks are remaining in Kiev and other Ukrainian towns. It is reported they have been offered large sums to fight the Polish army. The Bolsheviks are said to be getting 80 rubles and officers from 100 to 200 rubles per day for service. Kiev is being deserted by all foreigners who are for the most part headed for Kovel, Czernow and Warsaw. German diplomatic agents have issued warnings for all who are not natives to leave the country. There are a few American refugees from Kiev who have reached Moscow.

The cost of recent food is almost as great as at Moscow. Bread being sold is had, butter costs 75 rubles a pound, and eggs a ruble apiece. Clothing is so scarce that it is a common sight to see people robbed of their shoes on the street. Many German officers have been stripped stark naked by bands of street prowlers. Fugitives for Odessa are liable to be robbed by the Bolsheviks. If they go toward Kiev they have to walk part of the way although it is possible to hire a cart if one has considerable money, or to buy room on flat cars being used for transporting German soldiers. It is said these soldiers often times build fires on the open cars and toss hand grenades into them for warmth. General Burtholomew and a number of officers of the French army are attempting to reach Kiev to look over the situation. Many doubt that the party will ever return owing to Bolshevik activities in Ukraine. Before the present leader is a Bolshevik but wishes to be independent of Moscow. With the end of the war, Deluna revived his propaganda, with the result of many alleged outbreaks throughout the country. Palaces and private homes are said to have been destroyed and works and valuable book collections have been carried away and it is said that many murders have been committed.

The workmen have occupied the barracks, the town hall, the telephone office and the banks and have posted machine guns in the market place and in public buildings.

The soldiers in the barracks were disarmed by the workers. A general strike has been proclaimed as Remembrance Day protest against the killing of Dr. Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg. The factories have been closed and traffic stopped.

Copenhagen, Jan. 22.—It is reported unofficially from Berlin that 319 delegates had been elected to the national assembly from 28 districts in the returns up to 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. They were distributed as follows:

Majority socialists 132, German democrats 55, centrist 57, German national party 28, independent socialists 22, German people's party 14, scattering 8. Bourgeois Show Gains.

Amsterdam, Jan. 22.—Although the majority socialists obtained an absolute majority in Berlin at the suburbs Sunday, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Handelsblad, they cannot consider the results satisfactory as the four bourgeois parties found more support than had been expected. The Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin estimates that the bourgeois parties up to Tuesday afternoon had gained as many seats as the two socialist parties combined.

A surprise of the election was the success of the socialists in east Prussia. Tuesday afternoon polled a heavy vote throughout the country. Bavarian People's Party Ahead.

Copenhagen, Tuesday, Jan. 21.—Results from the elections in lower Bavaria and upper Prussia show that the Bavarian people's party won five seats, the majority socialists two, and the peasants alliance two. In Schleswig-Holstein and Mecklenburg the socialists and the christian people's party failed to win a single count.

TO EXTEND "Y" WORK TO SOUTH AMERICA

PLAN TO BUILD WALL OF INDEPENDENT STATES AROUND BOLSHEVIST FAVORED

MAY BE NEW PROPOSAL

Wilson May Name Baker or Benson To Succeed Him at Peace Conference.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, Jan. 22.—The supreme council of the peace congress continued today to devote its attention to the Russian question. An announcement of a fully matured policy is expected to be made during the day's session.

Principles of action have been decided upon in the main and virtually all remains to be done is the agreement to writing and get final assent to it by the delegates.

There was no indication early today as to which of the three proposals considered had been accepted or whether an entirely new plan had been worked out. The policy of building a wall around Bolshevism by encouraging lawful government is being spoken of as being foremost among the possibilities.

May Name Fifth Delegate.
While the peace congress is getting into action the question of President Wilson naming a fifth delegate to act on the American mission when he departs for home, has arisen and the names of William H. Taft and Elhu Root have been mentioned. Mr. Wilson's decision as to the appointment of another delegate depends on whether or he will consider it necessary for him to return to Europe after the adjournment of the American congress in March.

So far the president has not been able to determine whether to return to the peace congress because sufficient headway has not been made to indicate what may be hoped for in the approximately twenty days before his ship sails. He has told his lieutenants that as he considers the business of the peace congress most important as concerns his country and the world, he would not hesitate to return if his presence is necessary to the success of his plan for a league of nations.

May Appoint Baker.
If another American delegate should be named, Secretary of War Baker or British Admiral W. S. Benson, might be appointed.

It is suggested the possibility of Admiral Benson being made a delegate depends upon whether or not it is decided that the American navy should be represented.

It is quite probable that President Wilson will take back with him as many American soldiers as his ship, the George Washington, can accommodate. On one of her voyages she carried 7,600 men.

Will Send Polish Mission.
The supreme council of the peace conference this morning decided to send a mission to Poland. This announcement was made in the official statement of the proceedings.

A proposal from President Wilson regarding the Russian question was discussed this afternoon, the statement added.

When the supreme council of the peace conference met this morning the members of the council, Marshal Foch, the allied commander in chief, Gen. Weygand, his chief of staff, and Rear Admiral Hope, deputy first sea lord of the British navy, were present. It was assumed from the presence of these military and naval officers that the Russian situation on the Baltic and on the land front was discussed.

The council continued the formulation of its concrete proposal on the Russian situation which it was announced yesterday it was hoped would be completed today.

Mr. Massey, the premier of New Zealand, was present with the council for a short time.

GERMANY CLAIMS POLES ARE PROVOKING BORDER QUARRELS

AAMSTERDAM, Jan. 22.—In reply to a British note requesting the German government to refrain from further provocation of the Polish population in east and west Prussia, Posen and Silesia, the German government, according to a dispatch from Berlin, expresses agreement with Great Britain, that the future of the German eastern frontiers depends upon the peace conference.

The German note expresses surprise at the request and says that it "can only be attributed to the fact that the British government is inadequately informed of events in the east."

The German note declares that Germany has done everything to redress Polish grievances and accuses the Poles of continually provoking the Germans.

By the application of this law Burbank has given to the world the many wonderful new plants and flowers which never would have been known had Burbank not lived. Mr. Melrose explained his talk by charts and pointed out the reason for the Kaiser's peculiarities as the result of intermarriage. He believes the time will come when defectives segregated and sterilized.

BELOIT FILES PLAT OF 100 ACRES, NEW ADDITION TO CITY

What is believed to be the largest plat of land ever filed in Rock county was filed this afternoon with Register of Deeds, P. P. Smiley, of the city of Beloit. The plat which is known as "Belmont Park" contains approximately 100 acres of land in the northern part of Beloit along the east side of the river. It was designed and platted by William Pittkins Jr., a landscape architect, and Charles Mulford Robinson, city planner, both of Rochester, N. Y. and Geo. B. Post & Sons, architects and town planners of New York City.

The plat is bounded on the west by the river road, on the east by Park avenue and on the north by Henry street and on the south by Acorn drive. The plat has been worked on for over a year. The surveying was completed July 10, 1918.

It contains a large plot of land in the northwest corner to be used as a playground, while in the southwest part along the river a large park to be known as "Belmont Park" has been laid out. All of the streets and drives curve through the plat and lead to central point in the southwest corner. Scores of homes have already been constructed.

At the last meeting of the Beloit city council it was voted to accept the plat as an addition to the city.

Barker also has a number of other Hun souvenirs including trench caps, a hand grenade, machine gun bullets and dum-dum bullets, which prizes highly. He collected most of the German equipment in Brussels, Belgium.

He returned to this country December 20, after eight months' service overseas with the "Devil Dogs." He wears the overseas forest-green uniform of the marines, with the bright red chevrons on his right arm.

WILSON'S VISIT CEMENTS FRIENDSHIP OF ALLIES AND U. S., SAYS AMBASSADOR SHARP

Ambassador William Graves Sharp, at left, and son William Jr., photographed on ambassador's recent arrival at his home in Elyria, Ohio.

The visit of President Wilson to Europe will be of great benefit to America aside from the efforts of the president and the rest of the U. S. peace delegation at the peace conference, says Ambassador William Graves Sharp. He recently returned to this country to visit his brother, who is seriously ill at Cleveland, Ohio. Wilson's visit will cement the friendship between the allies and the U. S. which has grown rapidly warmer since America went to the aid of the allies, Sharp says.

Time to Protect.

Newspaper headlines state the men will be demobilized "as fast as jobs can be found for them." In the present condition of the labor supply it would seem as though there ought to be no difficulty in finding employment for all. Now is a good time to protect American mechanics and mill operators by a good stiff tariff. If free trade and low tariffs prevail to that extent which will let in vast quantities of foreign-made goods, thousands of men who have fought to make the world safe for democracy will remain idle.—New York Times.

First Class Seaman Everett B. Keck, formerly manual training instructor at the local high school, spent today in the city on his way to his home in Minneapolis. He has just received his discharge from the U. S. Submarine Base at New London, Conn.

Mrs. Thomas F. Cox entertained the members of a "600" club at her home, 618 South Jackson street this afternoon.

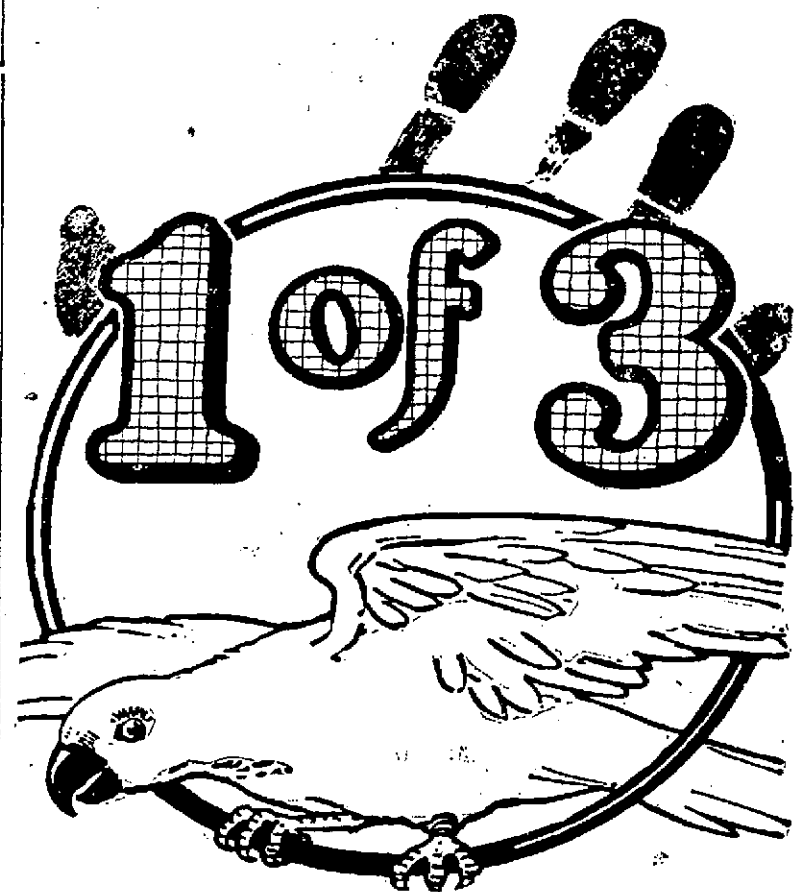

The condition of Charles Van Galder who was injured in a runaway on Monday is reported to be improving. It will be several weeks before Mr. Van Galder will be able to get out.

Carbocoal. "Carbocoal" is the name given to a new coal now being tested by the United States navy. Actually, "carbocoal" is ordinary bituminous coal from which sulphates and other by-products have been extracted. This is done by a process of low-temperature distillation. The residue is made into briquettes of a virtually smokeless fuel. The navy tests have found that the fuel works satisfactorily in furnaces having limited grate areas and restricted boiler capacities.—Newark News.

American Steel Industry. Under stress of war necessity for producing a sufficient amount of steel to provide for the government's requirements in the development of a war program, the survey of the steel situation just completed by the war industries board shows that never before has steel production been pushed to such a high level as at present. But despite the tremendous output that has been taken by the producers of the country to increase their output and make it keep pace with war demands, actual production still is dwarfed by the amount of steel estimated to be necessary for America's military machine.—American Economist.

Everything But Free Trade. Everything has gone up in value except free trade. That has taken a decided slump.—Evansville (Ill.) Enterprise.

Manganese Ore in Wyoming. Very few deposits of manganese ore are known in Wyoming. A deposit in the northern part of Albany county was examined by E. L. Jones, Jr., of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, on Oct. 15, 1917.—American Economist.

The Gazette Stands Ready to Support all Endeavor to Make Janesville and Vicinity a Bigger and Better Community.

A BETTER COMMUNITY.

We are calling to our readers to-day a banner which indicates the newspaper's policy in regard to the development of the city is bound to undergo in future years. In the past the Gazette has stood for progress, and perhaps it is not necessary to call attention to our purposes. However, it will serve to remind us each day that we have a civic duty to perform and that we must ever be on the alert to get back of every good thing which will tend to make Janesville a desirable place in which to live.

Other local institutions are awakening to the opportunities for improvement. Men whose interest in the community are unselfish are working day and night to aid in creating this development.

The newspaper is published for the people of the community in which it exists and in presenting the news of that community it should choose subjects which will be of interest and benefit to the greatest number.

The Gazette believes in the future of Janesville. It believes that the city is going to grow, not only in population, but in civic ideals. It believes that the welfare of the entire citizenship is going to be improved through the incentive which has resulted from the awakening experienced in the last few months.

This newspaper is not merely the property of the owners, but belongs to the public. Its editorial doors will be open to those who have honest advice to give. We desire to make the Gazette a power for good; an organ which will keep its readers alive to the opportunities around them; an organ which will not put you to sleep, but keep you awake.

Inasmuch as the environs of Janesville will benefit by a bigger and better city, those in the rural districts are included in the program for greater advancement. The Gazette will just as honestly and just as earnestly stand back of any enterprise which will aid those living in our natural trade zone as it will the things which improve the city.

GOOD HIGHWAYS.

The plan as suggested by many of the county supervisors to bond the county for sufficient funds to carry out a highway construction program by which 81 miles of concrete road can be built as soon as possible is in line with the progressive ideas which are being carried out in many communities in the United States.

The necessity for good roads was brought to the attention of not only Europe, but the United States during the war. It was found that good roads were the best possible investment.

Good roads in Rock county do not merely mean that we are going to have beautiful highways along which we can spin in 10 miles an hour in an expensive pleasure automobile. It does not mean that they will be merely a luxury for a few to enjoy. Good roads in Rock county means the saving of time and money for the farmer who has to produce to bring to town or who has to go from one place to another on business. They mean that the automobile, which has become almost a necessity in both the country and city, can be used both winter and summer.

Under the present system of building highways it will be many years before Rock county will have finished the 81 miles of trunk lines it can build. The community will stand still just as long as that plan is continued, for by piece-meal construction no one is benefited.

By bonding for enough to carry out the program the work could be finished with little delay, and while we are waiting for the state and federal governments to give us our share of the fund set aside for such construction we could be adding dollars to our pockets through an up-to-date highway system.

Let's all pull together for some plan to get Rock county "out of the mud."

THE PACKING SITUATION.

J. Orger, a speaker for the packers and representative of an industry which is richer perhaps than any one that deals in necessities of life, issued a warning yesterday before the house committee on interstate commerce in his light to repel the threatened invasion of government ownership in the domain of the packers.

Mr. Armour told the committee that the men he represented would not offer the slightest objection to giving up the ownership and operation of stockyards, refrigerator cars and other transportation and marketing facilities, if equal service can be assured them. That this could be provided by the government in the face of recent developments in the handling of traffic, he doubts. Mr. Armour pointed out that his company sustained a loss of $400,000 last year in the operation of refrigerator cars.

"If a monkey wrench is thrown into the gears of this business, its effects will not be confined to the meat packing industry alone," Mr. Armour told the committee. "If the ability of the packing industry to properly function is impaired, it will hurt the livestock industry as well. It will then affect corn prices. Wheat will then be drawn in and so will bread, and so will labor, and so will everything else that has its basis for wealth produced by agriculture.

"The theories on which pending legislation is based, are not constructive; they are not progressive.

They are reactionary. They would disrupt the great manufacturing and marketing machines which half a century of enterprise has evolved, and the results would be detrimental, not alone to the leading industry of this nation, but even more so to that portion of the public which produces and consumes food, and which have food brought within its reach in shape to eat."

If a monopoly exists in the packing industry, as has been charged, action should be taken at once to dissolve it.
If there is any way to reduce the prices of meats so that the man who works for small wages can have his share it should be done without hesitation. If the packers are getting more than they are entitled to, it is the duty of the government to bring about a change.

But government ownership of packing plants at this time, after the record made in handling the railroads and telephone lines, would seem to be attempting a task too huge for the present administration.

Wisconsin is sometimes slow in getting started, but once her legislators get an idea, great plans develop. Now comes the proposition to prevent drinking of liquor in airplanes through enactment of law. The bill provides that machines which must have a "shot" of burgundy or other stimulants for lubricating purposes will not be allowed to roam the upper air of the Badger state.

Portugal believes that a republic is better than a monarchy. King Manu-el's attempt to again occupy the throne was ended in the bud, and Manuel will have to be content with being a plain, ordinary democrat.

President Wilson has declared that he would be glad to see the Russian Bolsheviks establish a regime with less anarchy. Take away the anarchy and there would be little left of Bolshevism, judging by past performances of that brand of agitators.

The house committee on elections in holding a star chamber session on the procedure which should be followed in determining whether a socialist member of the assembly should be unseated, has given the members of that party an opportunity to oppose the action of the committee.
Members of the press were excluded from the hearing.

SOME MUSIC, WE MIGHT SAY.

The music critic of the Kankakee

the new year with the following:
"Miss Lewis was more than ever a selections were various, but all brought forth that clear, liquid-like breath tone that rose forth after vibrating through the producer to a sweet nothingness high above her head."

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE UNKNOWN FRIENDS.
We cannot count our friends, nor say
How many praise us day by day.
But one of us has friends, that he Hing yet to meet and really know.
Who guard him, whoso'er they be,
From harm and slander's cruel blow.
They help to light our path with cheer
Although they pass as strangers here.
These friends, unseen, unheard, unknown,
Our lasting gratitude should own.
They serve us in a thousand ways
Where we perhaps should friendless be.
They tell our worth and speak our praise
And for their service ask no fee:
They choose to be friends, although

We have not learned to call them so.
We cannot guess how large the debt
We owe to friends we have not met.
We only know, from day to day,
That we discover here and there How we have tried to smooth our way
And ease our heavy load of care.
Then passed along and left behind
His friendly gift for us to find.

Pay Big Fur Bounty.
Wausau.—Since the first of January bounty has been paid on twenty-two foxes and five wolves in Marathon about three times that number. The present high price of furs has revived the hunting and trapping business success.

Make Army of Gardeners.
Green Bay.—A movement to mobilize all of the school children and teachers of Green Bay as a part of a national army of "Victory Gardeners" has been started by the public school teachers. It is proposed to renew interest in gardening to the end of relieving the world food shortage.
Children over four years of age will be asked to sign pledge to plant a will be encouraged to join the garden movement.

High School News

High school cadets will stage a dance at the armory Friday night.
The boys are working hard in an effort to raise a company fund and it is hoped that the affair will be a success.
The Arcadia club orchestra has been engaged to furnish the inspiration for the evening. The dance will begin immediately after the dinner and Janesville basketball game at the high school gym.

Students at the high school are hearing interesting talks lately from members of the faculty. Yesterday morning, George A. Bassford told of an interesting conversation, with a United States sailor, whom was on board a mine sweeper. He gave several facts concerning the activities of mine sweepers, which heretofore were unknown to the great majority of his listeners.

That the girls at the high school as well as the boys are to have their games was evidenced by the fact that the girls will soon organize into a league for the purpose of playing basketball in the school gymnasium. The game will be under the direction of Miss Callahan, girls physical director.

Work on the programs of the 492 students for the next semester is progressing rapidly. The program has already been written on the main room blackboard, but several changes are likely to be made. It is planned

Voice of the People

To the Editor:

The letter published in last evening's Gazette under the heading "Voice of the People" conveys an entirely wrong impression. In the letter reference is made to "the dozen Bolsheviks" who desire the country to go dry. The writer asks for a reference to them.

In first place, it has already been proven that the majority of American citizens want the country liquorless.
This has been shown by the hundreds of towns and cities which have already gone dry through local option.

And in the second place, a supporter of temperance is not a Bolshevik.
Drink is a self-evident evil. Seventy-two per cent of all criminals were made so by strong drink, according to statistics. Ninety-seven per cent of transportation companies forbid their employees the use of liquor. To come out against such an evil is not in any sense un-American. The reference to Bolsheviks is ridiculous.

It is stated on the other hand, authority that in some German schools all of the children drink, and that children as young as nine years are sent home too drunk to study. Germany has fallen; could this have been one of the causes?

I believe in temperance and do not desire to have those who believe with me classed with raging foreign propagandists.

POLICE AND FIRE CHIEFS' SUCCESSORS STILL UNDER COVER

J. P. CULLEN SECRETARY OF FIRE AND POLICE COMMISSION ASSERTS THAT MEN HAVE NOT BEEN SELECTED.

BAKER MENTIONED

Racine Chief is Candidate for Office it is Said. Murphy Stated to Head Fire Department

"Stories regarding the new chiefs to be selected for this city are merely rumors," said J. P. Cullen secretary of the Fire and Police commission, when asked this morning regarding the selection of Chief Champion and Chief Klein.

"I would be in a position to know, if any selections were made," Mr. Cullen said, "and I can honestly say that as far as the new men have been chosen for the positions."

Spread Rumors, Fly Rapidly
Rumors have spread throughout the city during the past 24 hours relative to the selection of the men and several prominent men have been mentioned as probable successors.

Chief Champion stated this morning that he was already making plans for quitting his job in February, but he was unable to state what he would do after the first of the month.

"If they want me to stay on the force, I will be glad to do so," said Chief Champion.

No intimation has been given the chief as to his future but it is stated that he will be retained and used for special work on the force.

Baker's Name Mentioned
The name of Henry C. Baker has again been mentioned as the new chief. Baker's name has been mentioned several times before and his selection would not be a great surprise to the people of Janesville. An attempt was made this morning to reach Mr. Baker by long distance but the desk sergeant at Racine stated that Mr. Baker was in Milwaukee conferring with a man.

As a successor to Chief Klein the name of Cornelius Murphy is the most prominent. Murphy has been with the department since its organization and is one of the oldest men in the service. He has worked in harmony with Chief Klein for many years and his experience should well fit him for the position.

J. P. Cullen stated this morning that the governing board was prepared to meet on call and that undoubtedly both selections would be made within a few days.

ICE COMPANY MUST HAVE COLD WEATHER

City Faces Ice Famine if Present Mild Weather Continues. Cold Spell Predicted for Middle of Next Month

"Janesville will face an ice famine next summer if the present mild weather continues."

This statement was made last evening by C. S. Atwood of the City Ice company. Mr. Atwood stated that it was impossible to harvest any ice so far this season as the river has only frozen once and that it started to thaw before the ice cutting could start.

In past years it has been the habit of the ice company to store their harvest about the middle of January. In 1917 and 1918 the harvest started earlier due to the extremely cold weather.

Weather forecasters assert there will be a short cold spell during the middle of February and on these predictions the ice company is basing hopes for their harvest.

Mr. Atwood in discussing the situation stated that he has been in touch with several large ice companies in the middle west and they are in the same predicament. They are not cutting ice anywhere in the part of the country.

Mr. Atwood stated, and as far as can be learned all of the companies are anxiously waiting for cold weather.

METHODIST AID SOCIETY HOLD GENERAL MEETING

A social good time as well as a business meeting was held on yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church, the occasion being a general meeting of the Ladies Aid. About 50 ladies were present with the president, Mrs. Belle Dixon, and the secretary, Mrs. Loomis also in attendance.

The president reminded the ladies of a pledge made by them of $500 toward the new church building and it was voted that the different circles entertain the ladies of the society at the general meetings in turn. The money so made to be turned into this fund.

A coffee urn and steam tables for the kitchen are part of the improvements planned for in the fund to be raised in renovation. There are eight circles, and they all agreed to do their share of entertaining.

Plans for an Easter event were tentatively discussed, and the matter was turned over to a committee, consisting of the chairman of each circle, with the president as general chairman.

A Christmas sale was also suggested as a possibility, and was to be discussed later.

Circle No. 3, with Mrs. St. Clair as chairman, had charge of the meeting and presented a little program.

Mrs. Woodcock sang a "Mother's Good Night Song," and "Where Daddy Found Me," which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Hocking then led in an informal game entitled "Birthdays Verses" when impromptu poems were written about the months, and an appetizing lunch was served by the ladies of circle No. 3.

STATE INCOME TAXES ARE NOW PAYABLE

BUSINESS DULL IN BELOIT; MAN COMES HERE TO GET DRUNK

"Beloit is at a standstill and I came to Janesville to secure a position," said J. Webery when arraigned before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court to answer a drunkenness charge. He told the court he came to this city and got off the interurban at the new motors plant in Spring Brook, but was unable to get a position there for at least two weeks. He then frankly admitted that he came to the city and got drunk.

He wore two liberty bond buttons and when questioned admitted that he was the father of seven children, but he had bought four bonds. He was dismissed on payment of costs.

John Heacock didn't have much to say when he was called before the bench. John was simply drunk and he admitted it without any thought or the penalty. He was assessed $7 and costs or fifteen days.

C. W. Young of Rockford, who was arrested in this city about a year ago for driving a car while intoxicated, was on deck again this morning. Young does not like the local police court and he feels much better when he is away from it. On his plea of guilty to the charge of drunkenness he was fined $15 and costs or 20 days.

8 EGGS
2 LBS CHICKEN
1 PT OYSTERS
1/2 LB PORK
3/8 HAM

MILK--The Economical Food.

Here are some facts worth knowing if you wish to lower the high cost of living. One quart of milk is equal in food value to any of the following:

4-lb. of lean round steak.
8 eggs.
2 lbs. of potatoes.
1-3 lb. of wheat flour.

By substituting milk for other articles of diet, you will decrease the cost of living.

MILK--The Perfect Food

The constituents of milk are supplied by nature in the exact amounts required in a perfect food. The ingredients, suspended in solution, are in the most easily digested and assimilated form. Besides these two great factors, the enzymes of milk actually aid digestion.

A Revival of the Old Spirit.

One of the promising features of the day is the rush of volunteers to man the new American merchant ships which will be engaged in general commerce and also in transporting American troops from Europe.

Evidently there is a revival of the old spirit which made American sailors the best in the world. Restoration of United States to the former maritime prominence will be the cause of general rejoicing.—Troy Times

We are selling "across the counter" direct to Milwaukee and Wisconsin people an issue of $3,600,000 of 7%, 5-year, bond-secured Gold Notes of The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company. More than a million dollars' worth of the Notes have been bought in the first 30 days, mostly by Milwaukee people who know the Company and the property.

Issuance and sale of these Notes was authorized by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission to finance the growth of greater Milwaukee's electric service system.

Principal of the Notes will be repaid in cash Nov. 1, 1923.

These Notes are on sale in $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 sizes. They sell at par. Your Notes start drawing 7% interest for you from the day you buy them. You draw interest twice a year—May 1 and Nov. 1—by simply cutting off your interest coupon, taking it to the nearest bank, and getting cash for it. These Notes are readily saleable in case of need.

Milwaukee is as solidly prosperous as any city in the world. This Company supplies virtually all of Milwaukee's electric power, light, heat and transportation services. The State-appraised value of the property back of the Notes exceeds funded debt by over $16,000,000.

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

BY ZOE BECKLE

IT'S HARD TO QUARREL. It was a good game playing as sweethearts, and Janet and Walter resorted to it often. To keep the game full of zest and novelty they often went out into the country to some unfamiliar spot and stayed the weekend at the most likely inn they could find.

"Why can't we always be as happy as this, Walt?" Janet said at breakfast on one of these outings. "Why must we always be misunderstanding each other and unpleasant spells?" At this moment, Walt, I am absolutely happy. I seem to have everything—health, love, work and companionship—and money enough for a needed shave. We, do you suppose, ever have any more fusses and ugly times?"

Walter sat down his coffee cup, came around the table and kissed his wife with an audible and convincing smack.

"Of course we shall, silly child," he said cheerfully. "Only fools or liars live together forever without a quarrel. It is a willing, a grumble that we have fewer and fewer serious squabbles as we learn to trust each other and make concessions." "How do you mean—concessions?" "Oh, in the way in which the thing isn't important. Shrugging a shoulder and saying, 'After all, what does it matter?' I surrender this time. And laugh over it instead of taking it seriously. Get me?"

"Yes—I get you," answered Janet absently, biting the corner of her toast and looking out the window over the sparse-leaved autumn trees. "If you had made a concession the other night, Waltie, the night you came home late and I was just going to scold you with Roy, I might have been scolding me before Roy, and raking me off like a cave man."

"Now, if that isn't exactly like a woman—harking back to ancient history and demanding a personal application out of a broad philosophy?" retorted Walt. "Come to think of it, you might have done a little conceding yourself instead of telling me that you were not supporting his wife."

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: One night two boys were coming to see me and so I had my girl friend come over. If I had known the kind of girl she was, I would not have done it, because she set out to get the boy I liked from the first.

She and the other boy went home together. After that he had gone home, I told me that he thought my girl friend was a "peach." I was so angry that I told him he was so crazy about her he could go with her and I didn't care.

Now they are going together and he does not come to see me. What can I do to win back his friendship? I am heart-broken.

ELIZABETH

You made your mistake when you told the boy this time. In the future have enough confidence in yourself not to worry when a boy shows interest in some one else. The chances are that his interest would be temporary and that after a few hours with the girl he would return to you his old friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a man who had to go out of town on business. He has been away almost three weeks now and I have only had two letters from him. I wrote him every day and I have done so. Do you think he loves me?

WORRIED BLUE EYES

The man probably does not like to write letters. He knows you are well and nothing is wrong, and he forgets that you are deeply interested in him. Do not write often than once a week. It will be good for him to find out how much it means to receive letters.

This is not an indication that he does not love you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-one years old and am going with a fellow a few years older than myself. I have gone with him for several months. We go to shows quite often. When we take home home in the evening he never asks for a date, but always asks me to call him up. I refuse to do so and then he gets angry, but calls me up and asks me to go again and so please advise me what to do.

BLUE BIRD

The next time that the boy asks you to call him up, phoning a boy and he must not ask you to. He will like you better if he does not have his own way in this respect.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl seventeen years old and I have been going with a young man for ten years. We did not love each other much until we had gone together several months. Then we found we loved each other and soon became engaged.

Mother doesn't want me to go to parties, church or any entertainments for she doesn't want me to be with this young man. This causes me to love him all the more. He wants me to marry him soon and says if I do not marry him he will never love another girl as much.

Do you think I should marry him? Don't say I shouldn't, because I really love him more than my own life. Don't you think mother should let me go to parties once or twice a month?

Should I kiss this young man? He is a nice, respectable man and also wealthy.

IN LOVE

It will be all right to marry the man after several years, but you are too young to do so now. Do not be engaged. At your age, girl, is just beginning to become acquainted with men and she should be free to enjoy different ones.

Your mother knows best. If she does not approve of the man, why would she take you, she should not let you go.

Do not kiss him. I believe you when you say you are very much in love, but I also believe that this is a case of doing it with love. As you grow older and know others your taste will change and you will find a greater love. Your whole life depends upon your decision now.

Just that the man is only of four years before you consider marriage.

THE LOGIC OF AN OLD WOMAN

Once there was an old woman who had so many husbands—(3) three in gray succession—that she didn't know what to do. She decided to write a book about how to keep well without paying the doctor a damned cent. One day when she was at the dreary age stage of an antique, which told in words or half a dozen syllables two doctors always resort to four and impressive words to cure a case of rheumatism or ignorance—watch this column from time to time and see for yourself just what each symptom indicated. Now, there's a sort of doctorish word right away at any rate a word doctor's use with a peculiar meaning which a layman does not usually understand. "The symptoms in the book 'indicated' which remedy was to be applied, and not the ailment the patient. Well, the old woman ran her neatly manicured thumb—and, by the way, she wasn't old in years at the time, only in her olden days; but she had a few wrinkles and a few lines up and down the musty pages till she got a great idea. She dissolved a grain of common salt in a whole goblet of water, and gave the patient a teaspoonful every hour. The patient was sinking in the last stages of typhoid fever at the time—and naturally summoned the young lady to treat him. They are providentially called in to succor them—haven't you heard the village sur-

Alkali Makes Soap Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mul-sified cocoanut oil, or olive oil, which is entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps of anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair falls quickly and evenly, and is soft, looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

A New Coat Dress For Spring Wear

By ELOISE

The coat dress will probably be one of the prominent features of the spring wardrobe according to the earliest advance notions received. The suits themselves look more like frocks than anything else, so that it will be hard to tell whether a woman has moved her coat or not. Sadie, which had a pronounced vogue in the fall, will again be prominent for afternoon frocks, restaurant costumes and trotter suits.

The coat dress pictured is something new, being a combination of black satin and blue duvetyne. The high collar is copied from winter styles and will be very comfortable for the chilly days of spring. The long straight lines of the coat, giving it a Russian blouse effect, and the bell-shaped sleeves are noteworthy features.

Gray suede exfoliates are worn with the suit and the hat which tops it is of straw and black satin.

Beef Soup—Take a supbone and a small piece of liver. Wash and put on with enough cold water to cover it. Boil and skim, then add one-half celery root, two large onions, two carrots, parsley, one-half cup canned tomatoes, cabbage, salt, pepper and ginger; let boil about four hours, then strain.

Savory Rice—One cup rice, two spoons salt, three quarts water, two tablespoons butter, one large slice onion, one cup tomato pulp, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, four tablespoons sugar, one-half cup water. Use as spoonfuls of carrot soup. Cook the rice in boiling salted water until the grains are soft not broken. Dry in the oven. Melt the butter, stir in onion in light brown. Have tomato pulp hot in a saucepan, after cooking it 20 minutes and rubbing it through a sieve with salt and pepper. Add the onion and rice, spiced with cheese. Turn into baking dish and brown in oven till cheese melts.

Cress Salad—Chill a fine bunch of watercress sprigs in ice cold water and leaves are removed and that no insects or other minute life linger among the stems. Dip the cress made of four spoonfuls of best salt and pepper to taste, all whipped together with the beater for three minutes. Place a little thickener of the cress on each small plate and sprinkle with rice, egg yolk and tiny sprigs of the white. A flick or so of brick colored pimento should peep from its hiding from among the sprigs of green.

For a Light Appetizer—Tiny pieces of toast, bread, trimmed free from crusts. Toss a few small sardines in the spider with their own oil and when hot remove to the toast which has been rubbed with minced parsley. Place in the oven a second for the butter to warm and send to the table with a lemon slice, dressing the top of each sardine.

Baked Apples and Rice—Remove the cores from red or green apples and place in a cooking pan with water to the depth of a quarter of an inch. Steam a little and bake till done. Usually about 15 minutes. Serve on plates with cold boiled rice at the top of each apple, the rice dressed with the apple juice. Powdered sugar if necessary and cream if desired.

Molded Cottage Cheese with Chili Sauce—One pound cottage cheese, one and one-half tablespoons top milk and one-half tablespoon finely minced parsley, salt and paprika to taste, two minced pimentos, one-half cup chopped walnuts, cheese with dressing. Blend the ingredients except the lettuce and dressing. Pack into molds rinsed with cold water, then garnish with lettuce and serve with chili dressing.

A Lesson in Insomnia. There are certain people in this world whom I would like to have take a few good lessons in insomnia. I refer to the people who because of their own immunity have no sympathy with the worst of the worst nervous ills that can ever beset a human being.

Normally I am a wonderful sleeper. Within three minutes after my head touches the pillow, my mind begins to wander off into that deliciously vague state which is the prelude to slumber. And often within five minutes I am sound asleep. Moreover, I never wake up in the night and save the pleasant fact that I have hours more to sleep, and drop off again. But just about once in so often I get over tired or over excited or worked up over something and then I have a lesson in insomnia.

They Hear the Clock Strick Every Hour.

And, bitterly as I hate and dread these lessons, I must say that I find my sympathies wonderfully quickened for the unhappy folks who tell of hearing the clock strike every hour or never getting "a wink of sleep all night." I may suspect they exaggerate, but I don't blame them a bit. I know I should in their places. Nervous suffering in the world is not only to have wide human experience closed to one, but it means also that one never realizes how precious the ability to sleep is.

Now, I am sure, every one who writes "He giveth his beloved sleep" must have realized what sleeplessness was.

The Gift of Sleep. And that the gentle essayist who finished the prayer for the day with "Bring us to our restless beds, weary and content and undishonored, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep" must have known that it is indeed a gift and not something to be accepted as a matter of fact.

I have often thought what a hideous thing it would be if there were no such thing as sleep, if one day passed into another without the restful sleep to put in the renewed sleeve of care and to put its healing palm on hurt minds. We have all felt blessedly glad that "Every day is a fresh beginning, every morning is a new day." Suppose there were no breaks of this sort during which the old train of thought were broken and a fresh outlook on the universe provided.

What Wonderful Things He Thinks Of.

Of course it would not be hideous, because we should never have known what sleep was and we should expect to educate women and have heretofore been sheltered and protected, who have never had an opportunity to secure either a practical or commercial education, to teach them that they and their children may continue to exist, is the problem which the American committee for relief in the near east is attempting to meet.

With the Moslem women in contact with the world is an unknown term. They have lived lives of seclusion. Now they face an entirely different life. What property they may have possessed, has been sacrificed for food. Starvation faces them.

The American women who have been devoting their lives to work among the Armenians and Syrians must take up the task. They know the difficulties which are ahead. Undoubtedly illiteracy is the greatest barrier to the Moslem woman's progress. The older Moslem women are not read or write. Some few of the younger generation have had a primary education.

Rug weaving as a work for these women must be given first consideration. Silk culture must be revived. There are other industries which the women of these countries could, with assistance, undertake.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Answering a call to special work in India, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, for many years head of the secretarial department of the National W. C. A., and known throughout the world as the organization's "recruiting woman," will sail shortly from New York to England on the Carmania of the Cunard line.

Miss Wilson will attend a meeting of the International W. C. A., when many special questions relating to future work will be discussed.

From England, Miss Wilson will proceed to India, where she goes to establish a training center in W. C. A. work for women of that country.

During the war Miss Wilson, as head of the national committee in charge of the training center in W. C. A. work for women of that country, has prepared her especially to undertake the choosing of native Hindu women.

Miss Wilson has two homes—one at Mendham, N. J., the other in Appleton, Wis. She is a graduate of Oxford, England, and also attended Lawford and Appleton colleges in this country. She is a Phi Beta Kappa member. The author of several books on women and their problems.

HIS WONDERFUL LOVE.

(Author's Prologue: Yes, and more than wonderful. He loved her so intensely that he couldn't keep away from her kitchen. Not only was she a good cook but she was beautiful as well. Each hour that they spent apart, only brought them closer together. It seemed that each ragging of their love would consume him and her! Of a truth do opposites attract, for her hair—black as the raven contrasted beautifully with his, white as snow. Her skin, alive and dark—his light and pink; her nose, small and turned-up—his large and turned down; her mouth large and wide—his small and puckered; her eyes green—his blue; her hair, wavy and without, she a good cook—he a good eater; she beautiful—he so-so; she knock-kneed—he bow-legged; she tall—he small; she toes out—he toes in. And that—there 40 karat love for each—one for the other—both the same—each for each—back and forth—hither and yon.)

(In confusion.)

As he looked into her eyes, unbearable love shone therefrom. It was as though one looked into deep pools of something one had never felt, but just intensely felt. It was intangible—sufficient!

At last he spoke.

"Is no comely, dearest one?"

"Th-h-h, yes, my dear, as cooed.

"Are the questions all nice and sooty, honey angel?"

"Hum-mmm-mmm!" she murmured, contentedly.

And there is no naughtily cold draught, blowing on my onliest

"No, petite darling."

"Then change seats with me!" And he pushed her off the sofa.

All America.

Our total exports to South America in 1914 were valued at $124,539,909, while imports from that part of the world to the United States, for the same period, were valued at $222,272,449.

677,075, leaving a balance in favor of the South American republics of $98,187,166. In 1917, our exports to South America had jumped to $269,480,371, while imports to this country reached the record total of $543,212,820, making the balance in favor of the South American countries $282,732,449.

Thus, it will be seen, that, while our exports to the South American republics were more than doubled since the beginning of hostilities abroad, we imported more than twice as much goods in 1917 as in 1914, which had the effect of increasing the trade balance in favor of South America—Boston Globe and Tribune.

He was silent a moment and then added: "Mebbe 'lectioneerin' fo' de Throne might now."

Colonel Posey's little one-room store was the first to be opened in the little village; and over it now presided, like a tall priest of trade, the weaver, David Lawrence.

"Is this silk very dear?" David looked up quickly at his questioner. She was younger than he, and pretty, and freckled; and when she wrinkled up her nose as she asked the question, David could not forbear smiling. In spite of the momentary smile, the utter hopelessness that returned to his cavernous eyes almost frightened her. She felt as though she had unwittingly knocked at the door of a house that hid a tragedy, and she was on the verge of dismaying retreat. But under the funny little nose there was a kind little mouth and a square little chin; so she drew in her breath and ran up all her colors.

"Two pound ten a yard." "It's dollars, not pounds here, you know," she chided. "You're English, aren't you?"

His smile was frankly bitter now. "I'm done with England," he flashed back.

"A Yankee then?" even more incredulously.

"Yes, thank God!" he burst forth. She hastened to remove the implication of scorn in her words.

"Well, I suppose we'll be, too—father and I. We just arrived at Corydon this morning. But I'm not thanking God especially for the prospect."

His silence seemed to disconcert her. She may have been conscious of something in her that imagined a rebuke he did not intend. She bit her lip and threw a backward glance.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

He was of our brotherhood—traitor the worse—and had sworn—God help him!

Father and daughter were silent. David could say no more, but leaned against the counter, his shoulders trembling. Lydia felt that to stay longer would be intruding on his grief. She plucked at her father's arm and they left the store.

"There's a lad will make good cannon-meat in the Yankees' service," said Mr. Cranmer, when they were out of hearing.

"What a dreadful story!" exclaimed the girl. "And how wise he seemed."

"Learned from his father, I'll be bound," wagged the farmer. "Those Nottingham weavers are a set to make England tremble."

They walked back to the tavern, talking in low tones. Even so, Lydia appeared to fear that someone might hear what they were saying. Now and then at some light rustle she glanced anxiously about and behind them. But the village street was empty. Only the tall, bending elms were near, and they might be expected to keep her father's secret.

FULTON

Fulton, Jan. 18.—Phelps Lee visited his brother, William Lee, the latter part of the week.

Kenneth Fessenden and Robert Berge have enlisted in the navy and are now at the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Harry Himmerlinger, who has been discharged from a South Carolina camp, is visiting relatives here. He will go to Chicago the first of next week.

August Hantke, who was confined to his bed for several weeks with influenza, is up again.

Hubert Murwin, who played on the Edgerton high school basketball team at Mt. Horeb Friday night, returned home Saturday. The Edgerton team won three out of the four games played so far this season.

Harold Thompson visited Hubert and Chester Murwin at their home Saturday and Sunday.

Quite a number of men are virtuous because they're not bright enough to think up good excuses for not being.

David smiled at them as a man smiles at his surgeon.

"In December we were a crowd of skeletons in rags. We stood in the wet snow and watched a man in a black hood fix the noses about the necks of four men. Then the men fell the length of the rope and were still. They had little life to lose. The man who stood next me was my brother."

"The fourth, fella they hung was my father."

"Your father?"

A man sobbing with dry eyes is dreadful to look upon.

"But the fifth man—who was set free?"

David's face was terrible.

"They set him free who betrayed my father . . . he fled from us."

DINNER STORIES

"Madam," he began as the door opened, "I'm selling a new book on 'Etiquette and Deportment.'"

"Oh, you are," she responded. "Go down there and clean the mud off your feet."

"Yes'm. As I was saying, madam, I am selling."

"Take off your hat! Never address a strange lady at her door without removing your hat."

"Yes'm. Now, then, as I was saying—"

"Take your hand out of your pocket. No gentleman ever carries his hand there."

"Yes'm. Now, madam, this work on 'Throw away your pipe. If a gentleman uses tobacco, he is careful not to disgust others by the habit.'"

"Wait, but that dirty handkerchief out of sight and use less grease on your hair in the future. Now you look a bit decent. You have a book on 'Etiquette and Deportment. Very well, I don't want it. I am only the servant girl. Go up the steps to the front door and talk with the lady of the house. She called me a down-right, no-doubt-about-it idiot this morning, and I think the book you're selling is just what she requires.'"

"I want to know," said the gruff-faced woman, "how much money my husband drew out of the bank, last week."

"I cannot give you that information, madam," answered the man in the cage.

"You're the paying teller, aren't you?"

"Yes, but I'm not the telling payer."

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Oh, the lollipop tree is a wonderful tree.

Did you ever see it grow? The lollipops first are candy buds. On little sticks all in a row. And when the lollies are pink and blue.

And yellow and mellow through and through. The candy man comes with a great big sack.

And carries them off on his big strong back.

And Billy Bunny never would have known all this if Robbie Redbreast hadn't told him. You see, this little redbreast bird was very fond of Billy Bunny and told him many things.

Things which were going on in the Friendly Forest and the Pleasant Meadow.

And then Robbie Redbreast would fly over to my window and peck on the windowpane, and when I opened the window he told me lots and lots of things. O that's how I'm able to tell them to you.

Well, the lollipops were ripe and red, for it was just the time for the Lollipop Man to come around, so Billy Bunny and Uncle Lucky got in the Lollipop tree and started off for the lollipop orchard. And when they got there, who do you suppose they saw? Why, the Jay Bird in his Air-down.

Avoid Its Dangerous Stage.

There is a more serious stage of Catarrh than the annoyance caused by the stopped-up air passages, and the hacking and spitting and other distasteful features.

The real danger comes from the tendency of the disease to continue its course downward until the lungs become affected, and then dread consumption is on your path. Your own experience has taught you that the disease cannot be cured by

SHOW OPENS JANUARY 24TH

The State Automotive Show opens at the Auditorium, Friday of this week and will be very comprehensive in its make up. Not only will the newest, latest passenger cars be shown but also the trucks which are so fast coming into use in commercial lines. There will be aeroplanes with the latest motors which are so prominent at this time, these will be extremely interesting as well as the different types of tractors and practically every tractor of any moment is sold within the boundaries of the state, so that this will add another attraction to the visitor.

The whole display will illustrate to some extent the wonderful industrial organization of the automobile business and will give evidence of the remarkable recuperation of the third greatest industry of the world. There will be a great exhibit of accessories; practically every large accessory concern will have a complete showing of their various lines.

It is expected that the automobile dealers of the state will be represented in great numbers and every indication points to the most successful exhibit in point of cars and the greatest attendance that the state has ever seen.

One of the really novel sights will be an exhibit of fighting tanks, trailers, munitions, etc. There will be enough variety to interest every type of visitor and sufficient interest at all times to make the attendance a real pleasure.

Mr. Baker's Overtime Saving. Secretary Baker announces that by cutting out overtime and Sunday time the war department has saved about $2,000,000 a day. We hope so! Making now as before war weapons that can be of no possible use in peace, with the utter waste of material, waste of labor, waste of the taxpayers' money, is economic lunacy when done on week days in regular hours and at regular pay. The pay double rates for such war work is economic crime.—New York Sun.

HIGHS MEET EDGERTON HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Addition of Monroe Basketball Stars to Local Team Strengthens Prospects for Victory

Prospects for a crack 1919 Janesville high school team were bolstered by another notch Monday, when Lester Roud, Monroe high school basketball star, enrolled in school and appeared for practice. Roud has been playing on the Monroe team for several years, and is credited with being one of the best players Monroe high school has ever turned out.

Chances are that Captain Sprackling will be shifted back to his old forward position where he performed brilliantly last year, leaving the center position open to Roud, a man who has much experience at the pivot point.

Snappy practice has been held all this week in preparation for the first home game of the season, Friday night when Edgerton will play in the school gymnasium. Several changes will be made in the line-up, so that a strong squad will appear for the locals. "Oh, Edgerton is not well known, but they are credited with having an array of fast players, who will make the Janesville fellows play a fast game to win."

MORRIS MILLER

Bill Gleason (Brother Bill), now a captain in the St. Louis fire department, once a member of the famous old Browns of the '80s and '90s, was in Janesville in reminiscence mood the other day and told some stories of other days when the monarchs of baseball—the old Browns—were beating 'em all.

During the fanning bee he had some lights on the career of Charley Radbourne, who won the National league flag for Providence in 1884.

Providence in 1884 had a great team and one that was full of tricks, and Radbourne pulled his share," said Gleason.

"Radbourne used a balk motion that was better than Ed Walsh's, and you remember how the 'Big Moose' used to get away with it for Fielder Jones. If a hitter got on, Radbourne frequently caught him napping. He was almost as good as Matty Kilroy at picking 'em off the bases."

Irwin and Carroll were clever bunters and kept the opposition guessing, although to bunt in those days was considered a "baby act."

"Gilligan," after he would catch two strikes, would cover the plate from the umpire's view by stooping almost over it. When the next ball came over, whether it was a strike or not, he would snap the ball to the shortstop or second baseman.

The umpire generally isang out "Three strikes!" just as Farrell was apparently putting the ball on the runner. That fellow was a wonder at bluffing a putout, and got credit for lots of outs he never made.

"Providence worked every angle and used their heads to the minute. The batter came to the plate. He had to outguess Radbourne to get on, and then fight a battle with him if he took an inch off first. At second, if he tried to steal, it was all over. The catcher would be called out on account of Farrell's marvelous ability for faking the 'touch.' If he went to third, he had to cut around the third baseman in a shortstop, who were always in the way."

"You sure earned a run when you got it off Radbourne."

Peto Compton, who finished the 1918 season with the Giants, led the American Association in batting through the brief campaign waged by that organization last summer.

Official averages, just out, show Compton, playing with Louisville, took part in only fifteen games and made the point at a .330 clip.

Wheeler Johnston, the veteran first sacker, who was recalled by Cleveland, hit .374 in thirty-one games with Milwaukee, and Earl Russell, who after nine years has divided his time fairly evenly between St. Louis and Indianapolis, compiled an average of .366 in eighteen games with the Boosters.

Because of the abbreviated season, the association teams playing only half of their scheduled number of games, it is difficult to pick out a real batting champion. Of those who played in two-thirds of the games played by their teams, Carl Cashion of Minneapolis had the best average, reaching a mark of .346 in fifty-two games.

Tak Klrke, who came to the Giants late in the summer, fell below the 300 mark in batting last season for the first time in his diamond career, hitting only .272 with Louisville.

BRASS BUTTON BOYS DOWNED BY PRINTERS

Tom Morrissey stepped up to the line, poised gracefully and let go. The lignum-vitae tumbled down the alley and—missed.

This was started a howling match at the West Side alleys, last night, which has caused a great deal of talk and anxiety for several days and which was brought to a conclusion when the Gazette Printers whipped the Co's by a score of 2102 to 2057. Tom Morrissey was captain of the Co's, and "Count" Knuth led the Prints to victory.

Capt. Morrissey had had luck in the opening game and rolled only 92, but after he got his "buckshot" ball to working he picked up and scattered the wood for 157 in the second, and 143 in the third.

His rival, the "Count," with his "ocean wave" started the contest with a 151 score, then followed with 115 and came back in the last game with 166. Fire of the Prints was high gun with a 194 score. Cain did the fancy bowling for the Co's. After rolling along at a peccolman's pace for all three games Alonzo sprung his coup de grace. In the last frame of the last game after he had a spare up, he started a mighty swing and as he let go, raised his 200-odd pounds of bone and muscle from the floor and landed on that part of his anatomy which is used by coppers when they are promoted to desk sergeants and have to sit in the station to perform their duties.

Here are the scores:

Napoleon Lajoie hung up an average of .232.

A golf enthusiast estimates that the number of golf balls sold this year total 12,000,000. At an average price of 50 cents each this would mean an expenditure of $9,600,000.

Boston curlers will send a team to participate in the international contests for the Gordon medal. The bonspiel will be held in Montreal this winter.

Get Busy on Peace Preparedness.

So far as economic preparedness is concerned we are now almost exactly where we were at the outbreak of the war. Because the war cut off imports and gave us a larger market for our goods, we have left the free trade tariff law on the statute books. Because the war ended our industries the greatest protection and aid in their history, we have been content to leave the gates of our markets wide open.

Should we continue in a state of lethargy only to be awakened a few months hence with an excitedly announced discovery that "the world is on fire" with the competitive spirit? Shall we be as dilatory in preparing for peace as we were in preparing for war?—Evansville (Ill.) Enterprise.
